The debate on UM2 was astonishing and convoluted. The original emergency motion was poor, the way it was moved and argued for was terrible. It had a fake even handedness, it had an ill-placed pacifism and worse it centred on a negotiated-settlement not recognising that negotiating with a despot who has invaded your country, unleashing murder, rape, mass destruction and arguably genocide might be problematic.

That’s before we consider that Russia has repeatedly stated it won’t stop the war for negotiations. The motion also stated: ‘the deployment of British and NATO forces in Ukraine would be a dangerous escalation’.

This is entirely a red-herring, there is no indication of that happening, indeed British and other NATO troops were removed before Russia’s invasion to avoid them becoming embroiled in the war.

Amendment 1 again was poor, it stated ‘it is incumbent on us to oppose war and militarism in all its forms’ without noticing that the war the Ukrainian people are waging is one of self-defence, whilst the one Russia is waging is of vicious imperialist aggression.

Amendment 2 was strong and would have placed the union clearly in line with the rest of the international education unions. It would have ensured a clear solidarity with Ukraine without equivocation or obfuscation.

Amendment 3 was the worst of the lot, almost a chemically-pure version of what-about-ery with all its focus on UK and European powers’ military spending.

Amendment 4 was a well meaning practical solidarity proposal.

In the end conference, voted for amendment 1 and shamefully against amendment 2 but as the argument went on a palpable shift occurred in conference’s mood. Strong speeches were waking conference up to what they were about to do.

When Amendment 3 was lost, those around the NEU ‘Left’ curtailed the debate and went to push the motion through. However, by this time conference could see what they were voting for and saved the honour of our union by voting it down. Over an hour to end up with no policy but better no policy than a shameful one.

Model motion for branches
We oppose the Russian state’s invasion of Ukraine.

We oppose Russia’s war and demand Russian troops leave Ukraine.

Ukraine has the right to self-determination and the right to defend itself.

We demand the west adequately arms Ukraine so it is able to do so.

We oppose any attempts by Russia to force Ukraine to sign political agreements which would undermine Ukraine’s right to govern itself.

We oppose NATO. But this war is not being waged by NATO. The war is being waged by Russian imperialists. Putin’s regime is responsible for this war.

We support the anti-war left in Russia, defend those arrested in Russia for taking action against the war, and support Ukrainian internationalists.

We welcome all refugees from wars and persecution.

We agree to affiliate to the Ukraine Solidarity Campaign.
Palestine - direct links better than BDS

The only seriously contentious part of the motion on Palestine was around the issue of Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions (BDS). No amendment was submitted on BDS and no debate took place about its effectiveness in promoting the national rights of the Palestinians.

Only one speaker was taken against the motion, and that speech was general opposition rather than focused on BDS.

BDS has been around since 2005. By and large it has been a failure. Since its inception, it has done nothing to damage Israel’s GDP. In its 16 years of existence, it has only managed to hurt academics and independent cultural institutions already marginalised by mainstream Israeli society and government for their dissenting position against the occupation.

Palestinians, like Ukrainians, have the right to national self-determination. Israeli occupation of the West Bank and Gaza has been brutal and barbaric. Workers’ Liberty unconditionally supports the right of the Palestinians to a state alongside Israel, with the removal of all the settlements on the West Bank.

Rather than boycott, we can better counter the Israeli Government’s denial of national rights to the Palestinians through links with groups in Israel and the Palestinian territories like Standing Together. These groups are fighting for democracy and recognition of the rights of both peoples - immediately, of the Palestinians who are denied the right to self-determination.
