A MASSIVE turnout of 5,000 to 10,000 socialists in Leicester (which would have been 15,000 to 30,000 at this time in the National Front) was the highlight of the meeting, and the National Front was the minority — the lesser evil — they did manage to march. Next time they will have to go before another day. They've got the socialists coming over with their power shows and their stickers, and they're starting to get together to demand that the National Front be recognised as having more than they are. The government should do something to stop them.

There has been more time for organisation on September 7th. The turnout was massive. Thousands of leaflets have gone out, and many trade union organisations have reacted to bring their bundles. (Bishop Stortford Harlow Antimilitarist Committee is circulating all branches in the district. The Mersey Anti-Fascist Committee has leafleted docks and car works, and is organising coaches.)

Leaflets and posters can be obtained from Workers Fight, 98 Gilbert Street. N.1.

COME YOURSELF — and bring everyone you can. This is a very important demonstration. This time the fascists must be STOPPED.

(Assemble Hyde Park 2pm)

DOLE QUEUE DANGER TO WORKING CLASS HOW TO FIGHT

•Closure factories threatened, without compensation, by any law; government can do nothing.
•Demand that those who are unemployed be given the freedom to organise under international control.
•Push for workers' elections into the full background of any proposed closures or sackings. The fact is, including interest paid to moneylenders, should be brought out. Don't waste time talking to businessmen about the situation. Butler said that the working class will not go.

Overtime
•No overtime. If it is scandalised for some workers, to be doing long hours of overtime while others can find no work at all. To make it possible for workers to have a reasonable living wage, without overtime, we must fight for straight increases in basic wages at around 5% for this industrial workers.
•Automatic, open-ended, zero threshold agreements, covering price increases. Adequately paid by an extra 20% in the cost of living, and based on a working week of 40 hours, the national minimum wage of 40/40. Too much, and not enough, of the way of living, and applying to everyone, employing or unemployed.

The trade union links, especially the shop stewards. These links become vital as the line "we'll move the work to another country" is heard more and more. The increase from the big monopolies, policies like calling for bans or restrictions on steel imports, as an answer to redundancies in the steel industry, must be opposed. All can do is get the industry organised, and catch up the employers, squabbles between rival capital and class, and disrupt any chance of isolated working class unity.

•Contact the people in your area. "We'll move the work to another country" is heard more and more. The increase from the big monopolies, policies like calling for bans on or restrictions on steel imports, as an answer to redundancies in the steel industry, must be opposed. The employers, squabbles between rival capital and class, are disrupted any chance of isolated working class unity.

In the building industry, the recession can already be seen. A number of firms have simply closed down, disguised as the funds to finish them off are not forthcoming. Contractors have cut a whole range of people who they thought could profit. The reason for unemployment is not that there is no work, but that the owners are not prepared to build or goods to be produced. The need is there, in the National Socialist society, for the production of unemployment. But, under capitalism, production is only done for profit. And if capitalists do not expect sufficient profit, they stop producing.

Need

In the building industry, the recession can already be seen. A number of firms have simply closed down, disguised as the funds to finish them off are not forthcoming. Contractors have cut a whole range of people who they thought could profit. The reason for unemployment is not that there is no work, but that the owners are not prepared to build or goods to be produced. The need is there, in the National Socialist society, for the production of unemployment. But, under capitalism, production is only done for profit. And if capitalists do not expect sufficient profit, they stop producing.

World

In the 1960s, "normal" unemployment was around 200,000. Now, 300,000 is rock bottom. Workers have been hit by the boom. The recessions have become more frequent, the recessions sharper. The world recession wave will be the sharpest since the second world war — in fact, almost the first since the second world war to be a simultaneous world recession. Workers, and workers who have been in the depressed areas are the most depressed. The cutbacks in workers' wages, and the depression in workers' wages, have been the most severe. Workers, and workers who have been in the depressed areas are the most depressed.
Lao Peace

Laos

The situation in Laos has been tense, with various forces vying for control. The government has faced opposition from separatist movements and other groups. The United Nations has been involved in mediating the conflict.

Ethiopia

Ethiopia has been involved in various conflicts, including the Ogaden region and the Tigray conflict. The government has faced opposition from separatist groups and other political forces. The United Nations has been involved in mediating the conflict.

Ethiopia Army sweeps the Sebeya region

The penetration of the West was also felt in terms of economic sanctions and strategic importance of Ethiopia for the Americans. Ethiopia worked close in cooperation with the United States against the threat of a possible Soviet invasion into the region. A high proportion of the military elite in Ethiopia went to Africa.

Relic

Ethiopia, like many other African countries, has a rich cultural heritage that is threatened by modernization. The government is working to preserve these cultural traditions. The country continues to face challenges, including political instability and economic difficulties.

END

END
BRITISH capitalism is now facing its most serious crisis since the war. The British capitalists and commentators themselves practically all agree that to one million workers will be out of work by next year, that inflation will be an annoying, but not an impressive rate despite this, and that an increasing number of workers will fight with bankruptcy.

The coming crisis has brought with it, and as yet only embryonic, divisions within the capitalist class. Disgusted with the Tories' failure to subdue the militancy of the miners and the risings of the ruling class turn towards the most recent policies of Enoch Powell. Integration of the trade unions and the trade-breaking organisations of retired army officers, which a few years ago would have been treated as a joke.

For another direction, Antony Wedgewood Benn put forward his solution to the capitalist crisis in the form of a White Paper, entitled 'The Heath Government of British Industry'.

Conflicts

The Press have labelled Benn's paper 'a flood of assertions', one paper even went so far as to talk of a 'irresponsible' plan. In fact 'The Heath Government of British Industry' is in the newspapers doesn't mean that it's only a plan; its proposals are entirely new, and the enemy of capitalism: and they are not even particularly new. The Heath Government is only the latest reinforcement of a trend which is towards the current stage of capitalism — an extension of state-owned enterprise into major industrialist enterprises, the unions and the management.

The White Paper covers a number of issues: 'industrial democracy', 'a new approach to the trades unions' and 'worker representation in industry'. These are just the latest in a series of things that the government plans to do.

And for the past year or so, the government has been under heavy pressure from the workers and the unions to do something about the crisis. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry.

The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry.

However, the government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry.

And for the past year or so, the government has been under heavy pressure from the workers and the unions to do something about the crisis. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry.

The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry. The government has been under pressure to introduce some form of nationalisation, to take control of the major industries and give the workers a say in the running of the industry.
Brent teachers 'allowed to squat'

Brent Council is permitting homeless teachers to squat in the town after it negotiated to buy their houses. It is even offering them rents which are less than the legal limit.

The three teachers who live in the town have been accommodated by the local authority, which has also provided them with a weekly allowance of £30.

Details of the agreement were revealed at a meeting of the council's policy and resources committee yesterday.

The council has agreed to allow the teachers to remain in their homes indefinitely, provided they pay rent at the rate of £5 a week.

The teachers, who are all in their 50s, have been living in rented accommodation for more than 20 years.

PHOENIX PAMPHLETS

Racialism: The World Class "Race" Campaign against racism, that has led to a national "reasonable sounding race" argument. This pamphlet is history of working class racism.

Single copies 10p + postage

Buck, Bob, Anarchist. (see)

THE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS AND THE STRIKE articles from Workers' World with an introduction 20p plus postage (5p).

JAMES CONNOLLY AND IRISH STRUGGLE FOR FREEDOM articles from Workers' World with an introduction 20p plus postage (5p).

MANCHESTER BOLTON WORKERS' FIGHT - Caribbean Conference on the Future of the Working Class Meeting at the George, Liverpool Road, N.7, Manchester.

NOTTINGHAM WORKERS' FIGHT forum for Workers' World at The George, Liverpool Road, N.7, Nottingham.

MERSYSEIDE Anti-Fascist Movement meeting for workers' rights and anti-fascist mobiliser support against the closure of the factory on 7th September, 9pm at the George, Liverpool Road, N.7, Merseyside.

PUBLIC MEETINGS (see)

September 3rd. Public Meeting - Save the 1948, 1956, 1965, and 1970 General Strike. 7.30pm at the George, Liverpool Road, N.7, Merseyside.

SOUTHEND ON SEA MEET on 9th September at the George, Liverpool Road, N.7, Merseyside.

Published by Workers' World, 50 Gifford Street, London N.1. Printed by voluntary labour. Published twice a week as a newspaper at the Post Office.